Is there a way to fall in love?

Is there a certain formula used to calculate attraction?

Is there a manual to finding a soulmate?

No. There is no method behind affection

That is the beautiful thing about love.

Can you make yourself fall in love?

Can you force your adored to want you?

Can you force your heart to desire another?

No. There is no choice behind passion

That is the beautiful thing about love.

Does fondness consist of chemical reactions in the mind?

Perhaps intimacy is founded on firing neurons?

Does anatomy determine your attachment to a person?

No. There is no science behind endearment

That is the beautiful thing about love.

Does fondness cry out loud for attention?

Does intimacy scream aloud for it's partner?

Does that volume of your delight determine your partner's attachment?

No. There is no force behind endearment.

That is the beautiful thing about love.
